SALES OF U.S. TOURISM INDUSTRIES: FIRST QUARTER 2003

Total U.S. tourism industry sales decreased 3.2 percent (seasonally adjusted annual rate) to $708.0 billion in the first quarter of 2003, according to preliminary estimates by the U.S. Bureau of Economic Analysis. Although total tourism sales continue to exceed the fourth quarter 2001 trough of $661.6 billion by 7.0 percent, they remain 5.8 percent below the pre-September 11, 2001 peak of $751.3 billion. In the fourth quarter of 2002, tourism industry sales increased 6.9 percent.

Direct tourism industry sales decreased $3.4 billion to $379.4 billion. Direct tourism sales are sales by tourism industries to out-of-town visitors. Examples are sales by airlines and restaurants to leisure and business travelers. Direct sales of air transportation declined 18.5 percent in the first quarter to $89.3 billion, and sales of hotel and lodging places declined 1.1 percent to $110.0 billion. Partly offsetting these decreases was an increase in sales of eating and drinking places of 7.5 percent to $64.9 billion.

Indirect tourism industry sales decreased $2.4 billion to $328.6 billion. Indirect tourism sales are sales to tourism industries by the industries that supply them. Examples are sales of fuel to airlines and food to restaurants.

The tourism industry sales estimates released today for the fourth quarter of 2002 are based on more complete source data than were available for the preliminary estimates issued in March. In those preliminary estimates, the increase in tourism industry sales for the fourth quarter of 2002 was 4.6 percent. Most of the upward revision to the percentage change in tourism industry sales reflects an upward revision to sales of air transportation.

Tourism industries are those identified in BEA's Travel and Tourism Satellite Accounts (TTSA) as industries whose primary products are typically purchased by out-of-town visitors. Visitors are people whose travel for pleasure or business takes them 50 miles or more away from home, or outside of their usual environment. The definitions, framework, and estimating methods used for the U.S. TTSA's follow, as closely as practicable, the guidelines for similar accounts that were developed by the World Tourism Organization (WTO) and the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD).

BEA's estimates of U.S. tourism industry sales include figures for both direct and indirect sales. Direct tourism sales are sales by tourism industries to out-of-town visitors. Indirect tourism sales are sales to tourism industries by the industries that supply them. Indirect sales were estimated using industry-by-industry total requirements coefficients from BEA's input-output accounts.

Further information on BEA's TTSA and analyses of previous quarters are available on BEA's Web site. Go to <www.bea.gov>, click on "GDP by industry and input-output data," and look under "Satellite Accounts -- Tourism." With the support of the U.S. Department of Commerce's International Trade Administration, BEA's first TTSA's were published in the July 1998 Survey of Current Business. In late 2001, BEA began producing prototype quarterly estimates of tourism industry sales. BEA is now publishing these estimates on a regular basis, approximately two weeks following the release of BEA's preliminary estimates of GDP.

BEA's major national, international, regional, and industry estimates; the Survey of Current Business; and BEA news releases are available without charge on BEA's Web site:
